principles. The better you make it, the better your success will be."

Mr. Eastman stated that members of the city government may sometimes differ with the views of the directors of the Chamber of Commerce. Sometimes the Chamber members will not be entirely in accord with the city officials. But there is nothing wrong about that, he pointed out. Both should be free to express their views on public problems. Constructive criticism given in a calm, American way usually results in reaching a happy solution.

The Chamber has in mind employment of a paid secretary and officials had asked Mr. Eastman to express himself on that matter or perhaps offer some recommendations. On this subject, he said a Chamber secretary to be successful must be a man well trained in organization, that he must be a man of high character and one who can meet and talk to anybody on any subject.

"But don't expect your secretary to do all the work, you people who belong to the Chamber, the men and women who have the welfare of the city at heart, are the ones who will have to give up some of your time in other pursuits to get in and work with the secretary."

Private Enterprise
Reminding his audience of the growing tendency for more government competition in individual or private enterprise, he said the Chamber should take a determined stand on that subject and not be ashamed to stand out in favor of the profit in business idea. Preservation of private enterprise, Eastman said, is important. He stressed the danger of too much government regulation of industry and business where only a few prosper, while the small enterprise is shoved to the wall. It is better, Eastman declared, to have a thousand going institutions than one, even if their combined volume of business is no greater. The great danger of over-regulation reduced to a few is federalization of enterprise. Business and industry must be released from existing shackles, if free enterprise lives, the speaker admonished.

Fritz Burns Speaks
Another speaker of the evening was Fritz Burns of the firm of Marlow & Burns, president of the National Association of Home Builders and vice president of the Los Angeles Realty Board. He chose as his subject: "Housing in the Post-War Period." He discussed the theory of some that housing will be "too plentiful" in California after the war ends. He based this idea on an expectation that a very large percentage of immigrant war workers will remain here; that the home coming of men from the armed services and the new families just entering the picture through recent marriages will go a long way toward taking up the slack. Then, he argued, that defeat of Hitler in Europe is apt to bring a new crowd of workers from the east when curtailment of war industries there begins to be felt, who will come to California. He believed that Pacific coast war industries will be kept going at peak until Japan is kicked out of the war.

Federal Built Homes
Burns said 30,000 war homes had been built in California since the war started and that 20,000 more will be constructed. He admitted that many of these have been put up with no expectation of permanency, but feared they would not be razed as rapidly as they ought to be. He believed new post-war homes would be very much of the same design as those of today, except that they are likely to contain more modern conveniences. Burns is associated with Fred Marlow in the Torrance Housing Corp., developers of the Torrance Terrace on Carson st.

Chamber Election
James L. Lynch, temporary president of the Torrance Chamber, presided over Monday night's meeting. He announced that he was selected to serve until Jan. 1. Therefore, election of a new board of directors by the members of the Chamber is in the offing. He named B. C. Buxton, chairman; Hillman R. Lee and Dr. O. E. Fossum as a nominating committee, to submit candidates to the general membership meeting called for Wednesday, Dec. 15, at which time the new board will be elected. The next meeting, originally scheduled for Thursday, Dec. 16, was advanced one day to avoid conflict with the meeting of the League of California Cities at Glendale.

BHONES ARE GUESTS
Mr. and Mrs. Edward Rhone were dinner guests of his sister, Miss Clara Bosbyshell of Los Angeles who entertained them at the University Club.

in the mud. He looks more like that than they ever will. The working Navy's uniform for officers is khaki with black tie and Pat's coloring conforms perfectly. He accepts the persistent rain, mosquitoes and mud with perfect equanimity and patiently waits outside our tents for us to emerge in the morning. Then he wags his tail clean up to the neck and puts his muddy paws all over the chests of our last clean shirts.

"Pat put me in my place yesterday. I threw a stick down a hill. He chased it but the stick stopped and Pat slid on down. I chuckled. But my foot slipped and suddenly I was sitting in three inches of mud. I'll swear Pat laughed out loud. Except for the mal de mer he suffered during the voyage his appetite has been prodigious. He's never too clean—neither are we, but he is healthy and happy and fat—the accepted and loved comrade of some of Uncle Sam's grandest fighting men."

Pat is an Airedale and is a son of imported Champion "Lamorna Prince Nobbler." He has a niece in Torrance, a prized Airedale specimen who makes her home with Mr. and Mrs. C. Z. Ward of 1720 Gramercy ave.
